Founded in 1944, the Association for Talent Development (formally the American Society of Training and Development) is a non-profit organization and the leading association for workplace learning and human performance improvement professionals.

ATD offers a variety of resources and services to members, including professional journals, T&D Magazine, online resources, conferences and workshops.

The San Diego Chapter has been active since 1947 and is 400+ members strong and growing.

ATD San Diego welcomes and supports individuals and organizations committed to growth in workplace learning and employee development at all levels.

Our diverse membership is represented by individuals from corporate, public, and not-for-profit organizations, as well as independent consultants, all sharing the desire to improve their professional skills, access valuable resources, and network with other learning, training and talent development professionals.

ATD San Diego provides professional development and networking opportunities for the San Diego Learning, Training, Human Resources, Organizational Development, Coaching, Learning Technology and Human Performance Improvement communites.

We look forward to partnering with you!
