

Alliant International University
California School of Management & Leadership

The CSML Speaker Series presents:

Laddership: Transforming Leadership from Transactional to Relational Frameworks

The California School of Management and Leadership (CSML) at Alliant invites you to join our CSML Speaker Series. In this webinar series, business leaders and experts will discuss innovative approaches and strategies in the fields of business, management & leadership.

We imagine traditional leaders as people in charge, executing pathways and directing groups to new visions. However, as our institutions shift from predictable and mechanistic infrastructures to far more complex and emergent networks of interdependence, it is also inviting an evolution of our leadership models. We call it Laddership. From a plan-and-execute model to a search-and-amplify model, this shift invites us to consider multiple forms of wealth beyond money, pay attention to the edges in place of the center, and shift from transactional to relational frameworks.

In this session, Nipun Mehta will share insights from his laddership journey of starting a weekend project with 4 volunteers, almost 20 years ago, that has now turned into a thriving movement.

About the speaker: Nipun Mehta, Founder of ServiceSpace.org, President Obama's appointee on a council for social change, the Dalai Lama's recognized person as an Unsung Hero of Compassion, and Germany's OOM magazine's member of Top 100 Most Inspiring People of 2018, and honoree of standing ovation for his address at UPenn commencement.

December 2nd | 4:30 PM PT
ZOOM VIRTUAL EVENT

RSVP TODAY
bit.ly/CSML12

Why Alliant?

At Alliant International University, we're committed to providing and promoting quality, equitable education. Our holistic vision is inclusive and fosters excellence. We value and embrace the rich diversity of our Alliant community and promote inclusivity when building relationships with our partnerships and stakeholders

For program information contact

Dr. Leila Naderi • Partnership Development
Lnaderi@alliant.edu | 858.635.4233